Council District 17 Special Election ♦ www.nyccfb.info/voterguide

Hello, my name is Marlon Molina and I'm running for the New York City Council, District 17 in the Bronx.

I have lived in the Bronx for over 30 years. And I have been working to improve the quality of life of Bronx residents for most of my life.

This election is about the future of your community, the future of your schools and safety of your neighborhood. Your participation is essential to the future of District 17.

Many years ago I started working as a community organizer and learned the value of bringing people together to improve our living conditions by holding elected officials and city agencies accountable. Today I want to continue that work by representing you in the City council.

I have over 20 years of community development and public policy experience. I have managed city-wide anti-poverty programs and understand that we have a diverse community within our boroughs and that our neighborhoods have distinct characteristics that make them unique and special.

Reducing gun violence in our streets is a top priority for me. We need to keep guns off the streets with responsive partnerships between the community and law enforcement. I want to make sure the City Council invests' public funds to support programs that educate our youth about the negative consequences of getting involved with guns.

My candidacy will be about revitalizing the Bronx without pricing out current residents from their home. I am running because I believe in the power that community involvement has in improving living standards. I am passionate about bringing people together to identify the underlying needs of the community and together coming up with the most effective solutions for those being affected. I intend to lead by listening to the community. I hope that on February 23rd you choose to allow me the privilege of representing you.
